Harry John McDermott

MAR 10, 1922 - JAN 12, 2007

McDermott, Harry J., 84 of St. Petersburg died Friday, January 12, 2007 at Northside Hospital and heart Institute. He moved here in 1963 from his native Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1984 he moved to Boise, Idaho and in January of 2007 moved back to St. Petersburg. He was a Catholic. He retired in 1963 as warehouse manager for Westinghouse in Cincinnati. He was a very active foster grandparent, teaching reading to young children even though he was legally blind. He also loved dogs. He is survived by four sons, Dennis of Middleburg, Florida, Rick of Milford, Ohio, Kevin of Vista, California and Kerry of Spring Harbor, Michigan; three daughters, Cheryl Popp of St. Petersburg, Gail Fiasco, and Kim Gerhardt, both of Cincinnati; a brother, Jim of Cincinnati; eleven grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren ATTENTION ALL VISITORS Please take the time to sign into the guest register, simply click on the "Guest Book" tab at the top of this page. Love, Cheryl "Grandpa Harry" By Esther Burkheimer 1-14-07 Here's a tribute to Grandpa - Who was faithful as could be!

He listened to kids as they learned to read,
Their success was his guarantee! The kids all dearly Loved him-
For sometimes he was a tease!
But in spite of all the pranks he played,
Taft students learned their ABC's! When he was in the faculty lounge
A special placemat showed his spot!
It's "Harry's Place", without a doubt-
Just in case you had forgot! We extend our deepest sympathies
To Grandpa's friends & family-
We are glad we got to know him

He was a special V.I.P.! Yes, here's a tribute to Grandpa Harry
Who kept us on our toes!
And we will miss him greatly,
As only Heaven knows!

I met Harry for the first time at Companions Animal Hospital, I had just taken over the reception position there and Harry was taking care of his beloved dog Clancy. Harry let me know right away that he like Paula, the lady I was taking her place, better. At first I was of afraid of him. He told me he liked dogs and children but he could live without adults. Well, I decided that I would make him like me. I needed to find common ground and that was the apartments where he lived. I worked a second job at the long term care facility that was part of the organization that owned the apartments where Harry lived. The next thing we had in common was Clancy, his beloved old black poodle. You see, Harry needed help in giving Clancy his medications and that is where I came in. I would go over after work and give Clancy his medication but a funny thing happened. I went there determined to make Harry like me, but I left his home that first day in awe of him. He became my friend and hero. When it was time for him to make the hard decision to put Clancy down, I was working that day. My heart broke for him and his loss and I worried how he would make it without his trusted companion. There is so much more to this story of how one old man, an old dog and new receptionist became friends. One day as I was in the activity room of the long term care facility where I work when I recognized a voice, I turned and saw that it was Harry. He's own health had become a challenge for him. I know that he would have like nothing better than to have stayed in his apartment but circumstances had him at Boise Samaritan Village. I was grateful that I could help in some small way to make his recovery a little less lonely. I will always remember Harry as a hero to children that needed a little extra love and attention, and as the man who loved animals and children with all of his heart.

~I regret that I did not make more of an effort to get to know you better, and now I am left wishing I had more time. We met twice and I quickly realized where the sense of humor in our family came from. I know that will carry on. I am truly sad that I did not get to develop the relationship you had with so many children, but it warms my heart to know your love and time was not wasted. You will be a very busy Angel, but please remember me, as I always will you. I am so proud you are my Grandpa.....Love, ~Kristal~and great-granddaughters Isabelle, Savannah, & Richelle (Aunt Cheryl & Uncle Lou, Everyone appreciates you taking care of things. The tribute is really nice...Hope u are doing better...Miss Ya!)

Dad, This is your baby of the 7. For 40 yrs. I always wondered about my Dad. And in the last 6 yrs I have gotten my closure I needed. Meeting you and getting to know you really made me proud. You've made an impression on so many lives. They all love you, and I'm glad to be one of them. Been so great having a Dad after all this time and wish it could have been longer but the memories I have (and my girls have) are really great ones. Sure will miss you, and I love you! Kim
