I need to say more from my memory bank my friend from so many years ago.... when we started to spend time together and T and I were friends also.. I so respected the fact that the 3 of us could keep our friendships separate apart from our ideas.... lifestyles... who we loved and who we didn't....LOL.... I looked at you Laurie as such a strong... solid ..live your life the way you were going to..... I loved that about you and I can say I gave you credit for standing strong and between good and bad you always came at on top..... you always held your own..... That is the woman I will always remember and proud to be able to have those times together and talks and friendship..... You are the sisterhood of friends and will always be remembered as that..... your spirit is always welcome to visit..
