Its something how our sons were born the same year. I have always call dougy, little dougy. Father and son with the same name, thats was just the way of saying who was who. Big doug little dougy. I remember little dougy coming home from school one day and confiding in me something he didnt tell his dad. I was so impressed that he felt like he could confide in me, i became bad adult and didnt tell big doug. Never forgot it. Me and my son, also stayed at dougs house, then me and my daughter. I got a laugh a few months ago when little doug sent me a facebook message as big doug and then let me know it was him. He thought it was funny. It was. My deepest condolences.

Deepest condolences. Our sons were born the same year. I remember when little dougy told me something from his school day, after school (yes, i have always called him littlle dougy) for some reason once we tell the difference between same name family, the names still stick no matter how grown they get. Anyway, I thought how cool he is sharing something with me he didnt tell his dad. We never forget our friends growing up or the kids we all had the same year. You are loved. ❤️ Doug and his son let me and my son stay there, also.
