Michael Wing posted:

I remember his office being my favorite place in the house, except for the swimming pool. He had his extremely comfy couch with walls of dark wood shelves showing off his ships and other nautical stuff. He would let me watch HBO on his old tv that had an antenna so if it stormed the tv wouldn't work. I remember him waking up with grandma having his coffee ready and it was awesome sitting there listening to them talk life while sipping their coffee.
